

Learning Intention

I am learning to identify or work out the moral, or lesson a story teaches me and how to use it in my own life.

Success Criteria

I will find the moral of the story. I will share how I will use what I have learned in my own life.

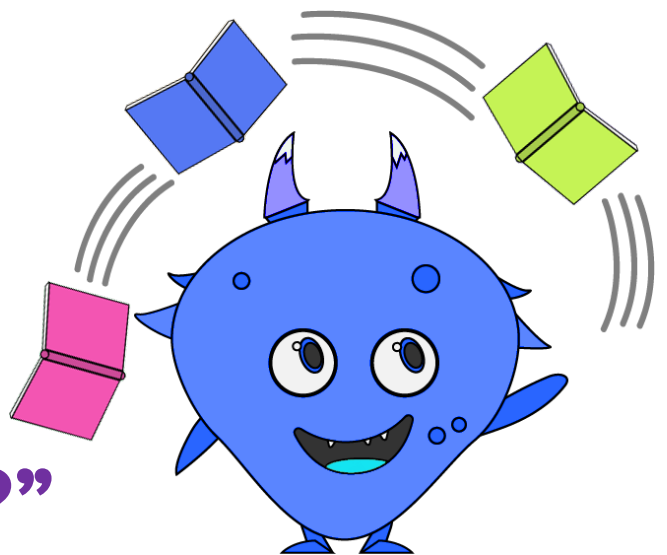

Moral

The moral of a story is the life lesson readers learn.

Readers learn the lesson by thinking about how the characters act and how they solve problems. To work out the moral, ask yourself:

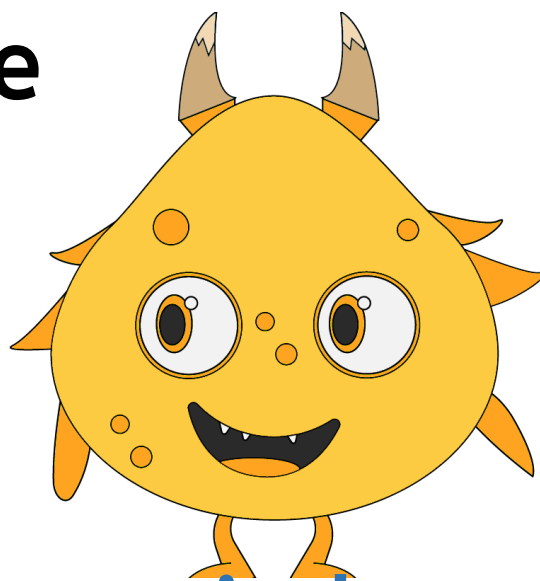

“What is the important lesson I should learn from this?”

“How does this story help me to know how to act?”

Connecting

When an idea reminds us of something we know or that has happened to us, this is called connecting. Great readers make connections to what they are reading.

They think,

“What does this remind me of?”

“How does this story apply to me and the things I do?”

Learning Checklist

Check these off as you go.

Did I:	✓
tell others what the moral, or lesson is?
think, "When could I apply this lesson?"
listen to other people's ideas?
