

Problem and Solution

Most stories have a problem. The problem is a bad thing, or something not good that happens to one of the important stars of the story. As the story continues, or keeps going, the problem usually is solved and the story has a happy ending.

